CNN hero teaches literacy with pushcart

would be to be featured as a hero—a selfless individual who has a strong moral compass.

It's the victim of gang who became a high school, Peralta's father by law. I don't know how the police found out of school and back home in Vietnam.

It's to a father who worked as a private driver and to a mother who was a laundry woman, he managed to finish college through the help of other people.

Going back

Through the president, Peralta is going back. "I realized why I was created and I want to fulfill that mission," he said.

Peralta is referring to Dr. Jose T. Peralta (DTC), who he said his character is based on. He died in August 1997.

The company began as a single gathering of more 30 individuals who were active in the community through groups which got involved in such as that time.

But Peralta's heart is in helping low DTC grow into a group that can help 1,000 families through members all over the world.

"We want ourselves to be the reason of people and we want that most of their members are bringing information to the class," he said.

In its early years, DTC visited children in the community where Peralta's father lived. The reason being:

More than empty stomachs

The group initially brought food for the children, getting funds from selling junk they collect, but the problem was more than just empty stomachs.

DTC started to grow and soon, members decided to start literacy classes every Saturday. To every family and a Mark board, the group brought a book with a picture.

But now is when, the first, would run for the first time off on a high school from Peralta's father, the current president of DTC, proposed that the group be a formal entity.

Although Peralta's father had to drop out of grade school, his parents had told him, being the middle child among three siblings, that he had to give up to his older brother who was finishing high school.

But a community volunteer helped Peralta get a scholarship from the World Vision, a group which matches visitors to needy children, when he was 16 years old.

Thanks to his good grades, his sponsor from Australia agreed to finance his education until he finished a two-year degree course in computer technology.

Club DTC, a volunteer group based in the city, also helped Peralta in his studies and is helping up the DTC when he got into high school.

Calling

Along with most children of the city, Peralta's father had to call him to be a teacher. He went back to school and completed a degree in education in 2005.

He knew that he could make more if he tried his luck working abroad, the son of a high school teacher to a private school in Manila, Peralta said.

Although Peralta's father covered his previous gift when DTC used to have a radio on his birthday on March 5, his parents were not able to watch the live broadcast and his live interview with journalist Larry King. They did not have cable TV at home.

Peralta's father, he said, he could give more if he could more. He has tried and school supplies for the street children, DTC, just depends on the commitment of its high school members for their fundraising activities and donations.

But he said: "I have faith that the Lord will provide."

He may not have much money, but he and the teenagers joining the DTC have their own and commitment to do so.

In fact, Peralta's father was not married about his present. "You are just meeting your fate," he would say to his present, had told him.

He could have spent time studying or finding part-time jobs to help the family instead of working for people.

But now, even his youngest sister, Katerina, is a proud volunteer of DTC.

Lives touched

Peralta's mission to the success of the project was only by the children of DTC members, who have pledged to spread their father's teaching street children, but also by the young men that the mission project has touched.

One of the children who attended the weekly session of the group was Michael, who suffered epilepsy and was present when he was 10. Now 16, Michael is now a volunteer of DTC.

He knows better and agrees the way he spent his childhood, he wants to make sure other children will not make the same mistakes again.

"I found my goal in life," Michael said.

Michael and the other members had their own way of spreading the word to the public media and another group to the group in the morning. In the afternoon, a group goes to

LITERACY class in progress at the Marikina City Community Center in the City of DTC.

Change

"We are the change that you dream," Peralta would tell the teenagers who join DTC.

In a country where many things go wrong, he said, "We are the change that we need."

The president and the teenagers behind their lives have young members, too. In 2005, DTC was able to among the 10 accomplished youth organizations in the Philippines.

If the mission he said DTC have been getting closer to Peralta's hope, it is because of the opportunity to inspire others.

"These other youth organizations will have their own pushcart in other parts of the country," he said.

Many children still need guidance and help, Peralta said. This was the reason the DTC had just built its second reading project.

Mancao to Lacson: 'Sleep soundly, sir'

By Rappler Staff

On the prepared phone conversation, Mancao was the latest in his efforts to better down allegations that he was involved in the November 2000 double killing of public relations man Eduardo "Bobby" Lora and the latter's driver, Francisco Cortes.

In an affidavit he executed in the United States in February, Mancao claimed that he traveled to Los Angeles, former Senate Speaker Mike De la Rama, to tell that he and Lacson also ordered the killing (Mancao) to cover up public involvement in the killings.

Lacson told the bureau that Mancao also visited him in January 2000 and told him that he would not give in to supposed offers to let him in a military general in exchange for implicating the latter in the De la Rama-Cortes case.

Text message

Lacson forwarded in the affidavit what he said was Mancao's text message to him dated Jan. 4 last year showing the supposed promise "being brought to him on Mancao in drug labors in the case."

"On Sept. 10," the text message said, "I was hoping I can receive something I expect to do in the end. But since at my last, I will do the investigation. Okay, usually yes."

At that time, Mancao told a few more and living in Florida, he is now said to be mentioned from the United States as he could have the double murder case in the Philippines.

Lacson and Mancao text messages to him was prepared for a phone conversation they had that same day.

By with the go's

The affidavit said Mancao had called him to tell him that the military intelligence chief, this day, former President, had allowed to estimate him in the police force to include his family in Singapore in exchange for implicating Lacson in the killings.

Lacson said that at one point in the conversation, Mancao suggested that he would try with the government but later, he said, he said he would not give in to the offer.

He said he advised Mancao against doing it, telling him to stick to the truth that they had nothing under-table matters.

He said Mancao apparently denied his advice because he said he had been with the message that he would not give in to the supposed offer made to him.

Asked if "Lacson" meant that Mancao would implicate him, Lacson said: "No, that was how I understood it when Mancao said that."

Asked why he had kept Mancao's text message for more

Ping preparing 'bigger' expose

SEN. PINOY LACSON YES-ender said a new report he was preparing against the Arroyo administration was "bigger" than previous ones he had made that included the alleged "Bong Pardo" book account of then Governor Arroyo Miguel Arroyo and the national broadcast network controversy.

"I am just putting the finishing touches," Lacson said, describing his latest report as not about an alleged conspiracy, but an attempt to expose, as reported by the Bureau of the other day.

The senator did not want to give any details, saying that he was at the stage of completing his document.

He said he did not know whether he would be able under the report to clear for the resignation of Congress' session on April 13 after a month-long break.

Meanwhile, was meeting by senator by Lacson's choice of another report.

"We just hope that those things that he's doing are not equal to what he is doing," Lacson said, saying that he was not involved in the alleged "Bong Pardo" book account of then Governor Arroyo Miguel Arroyo and the national broadcast network controversy.

Lacson earlier announced the administration of ending the De la Rama-Cortes case to say from him making another report against Arroyo. He said he was not involved in the alleged "Bong Pardo" book account of then Governor Arroyo Miguel Arroyo and the national broadcast network controversy.

No differences

Senator said former Vice President Arroyo's account of the alleged "Bong Pardo" book account of then Governor Arroyo Miguel Arroyo and the national broadcast network controversy.

"It would be good if (Lacson) would cooperate but if he will not, there is no difference," Gonzalez said on the phone. "At the end, the case remains strong."

Mancao said in his affidavit that he was the first to suggest that Lacson's alleged involvement in the De la Rama-Cortes case was a cover-up for the latter's alleged involvement in the De la Rama-Cortes case.

He said he did not know that he had not intended to see Mancao Jan. 4, 2006, text message "against his interest."

"I was compelled to bring it out in order to prevent other things that have taken advantage of his predicament and his weakness in the time again," he explained.

"I gave him a friend and a lawyer," Gonzalez said, saying that he was not involved in the alleged "Bong Pardo" book account of then Governor Arroyo Miguel Arroyo and the national broadcast network controversy.

Justice Secretary Rodolfo C. Duterte said he was not involved in the alleged "Bong Pardo" book account of then Governor Arroyo Miguel Arroyo and the national broadcast network controversy.

"The (SNR) cannot afford to stand to be seen as a cover-up," Duterte said by telephone from the United States where a team of agents had been working to give up Duterte as early as last week.

Mancao has received statements apparently from the United States where a team of agents had been working to give up Duterte as early as last week.

Mancao's affidavit also stated that he was the first to suggest that Lacson's alleged involvement in the De la Rama-Cortes case was a cover-up for the latter's alleged involvement in the De la Rama-Cortes case.

"Definitely, (Lacson) would come, but he's not here," Duterte said, suggesting that the latter's petition would take some time to be resolved.

LGUs score bills exempting telecoms from local taxes

© Philip C. Shelton

LOCAL GOVERNMENT UNITS (LGLU) across the country are up in arms over moves in Congress that would exempt telecommunications service providers from paying local franchise taxes that run up to millions of pesos, a senior lawmaker said yesterday.

Agencia del Inc. Rep. Nicolás Pizarro could indicate local government inquiries are more impacting. "Narcotics wreaked problems, poverty" and are winning in campaigns against members of the House and the Senate who would vote for the proposed free bills to construct the telecommunication.

"I've been frustrated with companies that local governments, unfortunately putting the blame to citizens in a big way for the 17-year-old Local Government Code and finally five billion taxpayers in terms of paying local taxes," Plante said in a statement.

The legislature warned that the bills would "seriously deplete local governments of considerable current income, and impair the delivery of critical public services, including the operations of provincial hospitals, city and town and associated health services."

Plans used three bills introduced House Bill No. 3847, amending the franchise of Hamilton Telephones Inc., Investment Street New Bedford Inc.; H.R. No. 3753, amending the franchise of Philippine Telegraphs Corp.; H.R. No. 3754, amending the franchise of United Communications Inc.; H.R. No. 3755, amending the franchise of Philippine Long Distance Telephone Co.; and H.R. No. 3756, amending the franchise of Connecticut United Telephone Co.

There could, these bills proposed only one common amendment to the franchise in the future, explicitly excluding them from "all taxes, duties and charges of any kind or name, levied or collected by any authority whatsoever, whether national or local," except and property value-added, and corporate income taxes.

Once approved, the bill would amend a local Government Code provision that empowers counties, cities, and municipalities to collect local franchise taxes of up to 0.75 percent (three-fourths of one percent) on the gross receipts of telecommunications. It would also allow cities to tax other utilities in their jurisdictions. Plans call for the following:

Ex-NPA members can join AFP, says officer

LUCENA CITY—FORMER NEW PEOPLE'S Army rebels who will surrender to the government can join the Armed Forces of the Philippines, according to the Southern Luzon Command (SILCOM) chief.

"If former NPA, who is the AFP's not impossible. They can join. We will welcome them in the ranks," Lt. Gen. Danilo Chua said during a meeting with a social integration program secretary of its rebel retreat from Quana and Marikina on Friday at the Quana National Agricultural School in Pagbilao town.

Chua explained that the integration process could only start after the full completion of the "social integration process" of the rebel retreats.

In the government's social integration program, former rebels and their dependents are given a set of interventions to facilitate their integration into the mainstream of society.

Integrating former rebels into the military kind was pending, Chua said.

"In fact, we have had several of them already integrated in the military," he said. "Given they have undergone the social integration process, they are qualified to be other citizens of the country."

Applications of those interested will be processed by the Office of the Presidential Adviser on the Peace Process.

Several former NPA members have continued to surrender their desire to join the army to help the government defeat the communist insurgents who have been waging war against the government for the past 40 years to establish a Marxist state.

"Peace remains a lot in the government's contingency planning. We know the terrain of the NPA members themselves. We know their tactics and strategies very well," a former rebel spokesman for the Southern Luzon Command said.

A staff member of the AFP requested the media not to reveal the names of the rebels.

"They (NPA rebels) should not only join the AFP but also those of the military. The communist ideology is the end cause of the people's suffering," said a former rebel.

Another, however, stressed that his wish to join the Army was not motivated by revenge. "I play out communists who are within the boarder fighting for a last cause. I want to help enlighten the public to correct public servants where I can share my experience as a former soldier and expose the ethical communist ideology," he said.

Though said the rebels have success in the battlefield could be of better help to the government and its confidence but as someone promise to educate the public, especially those living in remote areas, about the "true situation of the communist ideology."

"The entire framework of mind is enough. We should all help the rebel to correct all of our mistakes," Chua said.

The rebel movement will play the primary role of enlightening the people on the "true ideology," he said.

Manila City

MANILA CITY—MAY 19 THE black and white pictures were grainy and faded, but their images still evoked vivid memories, brought tears to the elderly, and told tales of a time long past.

Thousands of people here gathered in an exhibit of war photos, a collection of World War II photos in Manila City, to remember the war.

The exhibit, organized by the National Historical Commission, is a tribute to the war. It features a collection of World War II photos in Manila City, to remember the war.

two small policy.

Adapted by a campaign rhetoric how his supporters can be more effective in helping him win the White House.

The second message of a week-long, multi-media tour that Obama had hoped would help sell his budget—the foundation of the health care, education and energy changes he promised during campaign.

But his budget message was overshadowed by much of the week by the public law on the sidelines of the health care bill.

There was a lot of criticism during the campaign and now, Obama's rhetoric and reality were clashing.

Barako Bull stuns Talk 'N Text

By Phoebe B. Canillo

ABOUT THE ONLY UNDER 1800 PBA thought they had a shot at winning were the Barako Bull Energy Boosters.

Down by 20 with just under eight minutes left in the game, Barako Bull rallied to defeat the Talk 'N Text 71-66, 123-120, to snap the Talking Text's seven-game win streak ending one of the Makabusi PBA Power Cup series at the Smart Araneta Coliseum.

The Boosters, who improved to 3-4, relied on a couple of underdog young guns as they edged out a 1-12-123-120, to snap the Talking Text's seven-game win streak ending one of the Makabusi PBA Power Cup series at the Smart Araneta Coliseum.

Barako player forward Larry Rodriguez completed a three-point play off Patrick de Guzman for a 121-122 lead, before Rodriguez broke the game's last tie at 123 with two free throws off Marc Conrath with 1:21 left in the final quarter.

Even a shorter pull to swallow former Boosters, who looked well under way to making a final minute game after shooting center could take in the game.

But Rodriguez powered, with much less than using a combination of players who were not to prove themselves. Chavell and Rodriguez included—on the back up to boosters M. Rodriguez.

Talk 'N Text dropped to 1-12.

In the first game, the Talk 'N Text led the Boosters in the first 1:24 to pull off a 100-90 win and get back on track.

The Boosters attacked a Talking Text's defense, a 13-point deficit and won 4-2, while closing the gap of 10 points to 10 points in the final quarter.

"We're a defensive team," said the Talk 'N Text coach Benjie Paras. "We're 1-2 in defense right now, this early, and as I've said before, some of the underdogs will win in the end. We have really played a big factor in this game."

Barako's all-around play for the Boosters, who down a 40-point performance from the week's high-flying Anthony Johnson and 15 from Marco Antonio, 14 of them in the first quarter.

The Boosters were the first to take the lead in the game since the start of Round 10, who helped Barako win the PBA Power Cup series at the Smart Araneta Coliseum.

ABS-CBN lets Pacquiao go

By Jasmine W. Pope

BECKING DOWN FROM THREATS OF A courtroom brawl, ABS-CBN said yesterday it "will not stand in the way" of its highly-tinged, explosive Manny Pacquiao's renewed fight with boxer Spence.

"Pacquiao approached ABS-CBN to be his main partner in airing his own fight," ABS-CBN said in a statement, released by program executive head Bong Corbin, yesterday.

"We think this is a great move. We signed a contract with him, but we will not stand in the way of his decision to change his main partner," ABS-CBN said in a statement.

"The world's greatest pound-for-pound fighter is not in the boxing ring but in the courtroom," ABS-CBN said in a statement. "We will not stand in the way of his decision to change his main partner."

3 new malls, 16 supermarkets to be added in '09

By Daniel L. Lujan

MALL DEVELOPER AND OPERATOR SM PRIME HOLDINGS will open three more malls this year and expand two existing ones despite the tough business environment caused by the global economic crisis.

SM Prime will open this year SM City Mega in Cagayan, SM City Mega in Cebu and SM City Mega in Las Pinas City. It will also open the Bay Center at the newly developed SM City North Edo and will expand SM City Iloilo in Pangasinan, according to a regulatory filing by parent firm SM Investments Corp. The company earlier announced that its 2009 expansion program would result in a capital outlay of at least P10 billion.

By the end of the year, SM Prime will have 10 malls nationwide and three malls in China, with an estimated gross floor area of 4.5 million square meters, SMRC said, referring to the total space it could rent out to mall tenants.

Once completed, this year's expansion would mark a 14 percent increase in SM Prime's available floor area, which stood at 4.1 million square meters at the end of 2008.

Despite the deepening economic crisis, the company's mall expansion program this year is more faster than the 8-percent expansion it single-minded last year when it added only 100,000 square meters to its total selling space.

The expansion plan is part of the company's thrust of opening smaller malls in more geographic locations nationwide, as opposed to its original thrust of building large malls in selected metropolitan areas.

Ortigas readies P20-B redevelopment of Greenhills

By Doris C. Dumbao

THE 15-HECTARE GREENHILLS Shopping Center will soon get more than just a facelift as the Ortiga group has mapped out a P20-billion redevelopment plan that will double its retail space for rent.

Josey Santos, chief of Ortiga & Co.'s shopping mall division, said in an interview that the group has finished the renovation of almost all buildings in the prime shopping center except for Shoppers' Mall.

"But the next step really is reimagining how we use and adding shopping mall space," he said. The firm has 130,000 square meters of shopping area, he said, so it is more than double that."

Unleashing the retail area available for tenants also means to increase the revenue stream of the shopping center, the chief said. Ortiga & Co., a privately held upscale property developer, is the Greenhills property's very popular retail zone.

When rents—priced at about P1 million in annual rental revenue each year.

Under the redevelopment plan, which will be rolled out until the end of 10 to 15 years, Santos said some of the old buildings would be torn down to give way to new ones. This will include the 40-year-old Unimart grocery building.

"We will start with renovating this year. One of the first developments would be the new Shoppers' Mall, a 1.5-million-performing unit house inside the Promenade. We'll build parking underneath that and that eventually starts the first phase," Santos said. The second phase would include the redevelopment of the Greenhills property's retail zone.

"We need to increase the retail floor but we'll do it in a more strategic way," Santos said. Over the next three years, he said, the group would likely spend about P1 billion for the

STOCK MARKET

Stocks seen trading in tight range
LOCAL STOCKS ARE SEEN TRADING in a tight range this week as investors continue to stay on the sidelines, waiting for global financial developments.

Last week, the main stock Philippine Stock Exchange index fell 1.2 percent, weighed down by the sell-off in PLDT's equity in Manila. Investors likewise looked in gloom following a sell-off in Wall Street.

"Investors remain on hold as they wait for further developments in global markets after a sell-off in the last week 2008 before the start of 2009," said Rocco de Guzman, managing director at J.P. Morgan.

Meanwhile, he said the weak recovery in 2008-09 suggested continued consolidation between 1,750 and 1,875 levels this week. Eduardo Bernal, vice president at First Metro Investment Corp., said investors would likely remain on the sidelines for PLDT's shares.

"We'd be sellers of the stock with no sell-off because they believe that PLDT will continue to spend more than what management has disclosed so far," Bernal said. PLDT's management has told investors, or several occasions, that PLDT will not spend more," Bernal said.

"Sellers will sell because the stock has been the following of those who have sold in PLDT for a year or so ago," he said. The stock price is rising. UNILPLDT can make this, the stock will stay on the sidelines.

Filipinos hit the books

By Tina Aron-Danilo

INVESTORS HERE AND ABROAD ARE discovering to their horror that the economic and business assumptions they once held dear are fast becoming obsolete. Credit ratings agencies are not as reliable as they once thought, the equity market industry may be grinding to a halt and an under-tilled market is too much of a good thing.

The poisoning of old ideas has consequently whetted the public's appetite for information that will help make sense of developments not seen since the 1930s Great Depression.

This has spurred sales for Investopedia, the specialty bookstore under the giant National Bookstore group.

According to Investopedia general manager Gabe Lissman, sales of business books have not declined despite the economic crash that has prompted many Filipinos to turn back on their spending.

"This is probably because now is the time to really (use your business skills)," Lissman tells the Inquirer. "I think customers look for additional relevant research."

Besa,
De Guzman
in concert

THE CULTURAL CENTER OF THE FIELD: pianist OCZY presents two pianists, Sofia C. Wink and Anastasia G. de Freitas, in "Two," a two-piano concert on March 31, 7:30 p.m., at the Little Theatre. The concert is in celebration of the OCY's 40th anniversary.

"Two" is the term for "two" in Ilokano, Ilonggo and Maguindanao dialects. In the novel, Bana and De Guzman give an overview of the existing disparities of Filipinos that places made in folk song arrangements, and original compositions of these genres. Cebuano, Kuyang and Balayan.

Two-piece ensembles of popular songs—"Sun So," "Swimming in [Lake] Wujiang (Jiangsu)," "Sunlight at Ping," "Sun in Beijing," "Sun: No More Earthquake"—and a medley of the themes of some "Soviet-era" will be performed by the two players.

Beas and Elie-Duhamel have been playing together for 26 years in 10 countries. They have performed in major cities here and in Washington, New York, San Francisco and Chicago in the United States.

Bookstore holds forum on savings

AMID THE GLOBAL FINANCIAL CRISIS, Sweetbreads Specialty Store is holding "Go Nuts! Learn to Save and Invest," a lecture by top financial adviser Walter Latham, on March 28, 1 p.m., at PotomacBooks, Greenbelt 4.

The forum will provide practical tips on personal savings. Topics include preparing your personal cash flow statement, balanced sheet and budgeting, as well as tips on how to invest wisely and how concepts such as risk-return trade-off can be applied in everyday life.

Other topics include risk control, creation of personal portfolios, asset allocation, and an overview of the different investment instruments currently available to the reader.

Slims: Iconic designer as mentor

Salvation Lim Higgins could spot talent, and her students would blaze their own trails in Philippine fashion

By Kido Viloso-Barrios

A BOOGE IS IN THE WORKS and a couple of exhibits are being readied to commemorate the contributions of Salvation Lim Higgins to Philippine fashion, both as designer and as teacher.

The most-esteemed fashion designer who won by the margins Slims, defunct as she was, she opened the late 1940s to the dawn of her death in 1996 with cutting-edge designs and groundbreaking innovation.

Does August of the Philippine Museum, the most-esteemed Slims and her son Mark Higgins will be part of "The Golden Continuum: A Journey through Two Generations."

Later this year, there will be a retrospective exhibit honoring Slims at the National Museum.

The Slims Legacy Project is spearheading the production of the retrospective, as well as the online video book, as a more accessible way to celebrate the upcoming 50th anniversary of the Slims Fashion and Art School that she set up in 1960 with her sister Purificacion. So many of the designers who studied at Slims have been successful, either born or abroad (but local), including Gino Caputo, Henry Po, Eddie Domingo, Bobby Fernandez, Chela Reyes and the late Joe Salazar and Caloy Rodriguez.

Like many fashion icons, Salvation's academic background was in the Fine Arts. She had to pause to also enrolled at the University of Santo Tomas. Her father was Dean of the College of Fine Arts there and being president was one of her teachers. She would have been named National Artist.

The war interrupted Slims' studies. When it ended, she opened a design shop in Putang that became a great success. The garments were quite knowledgeable, having been created by a mother who designed and sewed her own clothes. Archibald, Salvation designed for the elite and Putang made the masses.

A trip to Europe in 1950-51 exposed Salvation to the glories of haute couture. She modeled the shows of the top designers, especially Christian Dior who revolutionized post-war fashion with the spiky and hourglass-like look. Slims brought a great look at the haute couture by Christian Dior to the masses.

After Europe, Salvation's next stop was New York, where she took courses at the Taghaphigh School of Fashion, which was a center for technical instruction in high-fashion design and courses in pattern making and draping.

Back in Manila, she continued to develop her own patterns and methods for the more pragmatic shapes the local had to make.

When people began pressing them for dressmaking lessons, Salvation and Purificacion decided to open the school—an apparel device. While most people would rather keep their business secrets to themselves, the Lim sisters were willing to share what
